Abstract geometric lines in black ink frame the text. A large, sweeping curve starts from the top left, goes down and right, then curves back up and left towards the top right. Another set of lines forms a trapezoidal shape on the right side, enclosing the text. At the bottom, several parallel lines curve upwards from left to right, meeting the main frame.

Entering North Attleboro High School as Freshmen, we saw our world as a distant planet through an unfocused telescope. Our learning was in its primary stage and our knowledge gained thus far was minute. As our four years passed, our view became clearer and clearer. Now, as we leave N. A. H. S. at graduation, we realize that through the inspiration and guidance of our teachers, we have gained a more comprehensive knowledge of the world about us. We see that even "through the eyes of youth" learning is an unending process.

DEDICATION

We, the class of 1957, in appreciation for the understanding, guidance, and help he has so willingly given us, dedicate this edition of "The Northern Light" to Mr. Cecil A. Beaupre, Head of the English Department.

We hope that in years to come he will find pleasure in remembering the class of '57.

ARTHUR J. MOTT, SUPERINTENDENT

To the Class of '57

The road of life is not just sand and pebbles running over the hill. It is filled with hope and frustration, joy and sorrow, and all the complexities and vexations of daily living. So I wish that you may have a "Grown Up" view with hopes and expectations that are reasonable, and a steadfast purpose to meet, without bitterness and resentment, whatever comes your way with courage and faith in God.

FOCUSED ON SENIORS

September 1—FOOTBALL SEASON STARTS—While our team was sweating out hours of practice, we enjoyed our last hours of freedom.

September 5—SCHOOL STARTS—To think, at last we're seniors!

October 12—NIGHT FOOTBALL GAME—I guess playing under the lights did something for the team. We walloped Middleboro 35-14!

November 22 — THANKSGIVING GAME — What a perfect game! VICTORY!

December 7—SENIOR PLAY—Future "Oscar" winners were discovered in this hilarious comedy. The auditorium rocked with laughter.

December 15 — CHRISTMAS DANCE — Imagine! A dance in honor of the Freshmen! Where did they all come from?

December 18—BASKETBALL SEASON STARTS—Despite our loss to Taunton, the team kept up its fighting spirit to win the second game.

January 26—SENIOR PROM—Handsome gentlemen! Beautiful girls! A wonderful success!

February 9—SADIE HAWKINS DANCE—What a dance! Every girl got her man—or at least tried to.

March 16—ST. PATRICK'S DANCE—Congratulations to the Sophomores who made this dance a real success.

May 3 — SPRING CONCERT — As usual our musical organizations came through with a great show.

May 11—MUSIC FESTIVAL—Our band showed us that all their months of practice weren't wasted.

May 18—JUNIOR PROM—What a beautiful dance! It reminded us so much of OUR Junior Prom.

June 6-7—SENIOR EXAMS—Just think, our last tests in high school! What a relief to find we passed a few.

June 10—CLASS DAY—Will we ever forget those gifts? And the prophecy—what a riot!

June 10—BANQUET—What food! What music! The whole evening was perfect.

June 12—GRADUATION—We finally had arrived at our goal—with mingled tears and laughter we received our diplomas which meant the end of our high school days.

June 13—SENIOR RECEPTION—We will never forget our four years at North High which ended tonight.

How we've Changed !!!!

JACK AND RAE'S CLASS PROPHECY

As we look with our special spectacles focused on the future, we see some very interesting pictures.

Jack E. and his band appear nightly at the Waldorf Astoria.

Rae has decided to stay in the Marines and now she and Rab are commanding officers at Camp LeJune.

Barbara A. and Ray J. have now taken over Franklin Hardware.

We see Donna A. in her own home piled up with Ray's laundry.

We're told that Sandra A. has had four office positions during her secretarial career.

Ben A. is now charging $2.75 for a haircut.

Joe B. has found a top position in Metals and Controls as a draftsman.

Jean B. is now in Chicago working for "Sports Illustrated."

Finally, Cynthia B. gave in and accepted a "hubby."

For the first time in history a charge of more than 15 volts has been sent through the human body. Joel B. is still trying to get up.

Angie B. has now inherited her father's chicken coop.

John B. is now back at N. A. H. S. sponsoring our annual science fair.

Linda B. has returned to North, and has opened her own nursery school.

Marcia B. had two ambitions: to be a retailer and catch herself a man; she has successfully filled both.

Now photographing Gina Lollobrigida is shy Doug B.

Carole B. is now awaiting Ray's retirement plan from the Navy to be issued.

Our successful chemist, Bob B., has now lost his way with women.

Jackie B. is now a cure-all for Ted's ailments.

Bev. B. now has a gold band to match that diamond.

Judy C. is now a great skiing champion at North Conway.

Carole C. is now a Hollywood actress surrounded by hundreds of men.

Nancy C. is now secretary to her sports statistician.

Quiet Sue C. is now playing a top role in Hollywood.

Larry C. has now a girl of his own.

Corby has finally decided that he doesn't like work, he would rather stay home with Charlie.

Rene C. has found a permanent attraction at West Point.

"Daddy" Daggett has passed on his basketball ability to the next generation.

Donna G. is still rejoicing at Gil's discharge from the Navy.

Elaine D. has just received a telegram informing her of Jeff's re-enlistment as a 20-year man.

Russ D. is an artist for "Ladies' Home Companion."

Rich Desjardins has finally reached his goal: "Come in, Berlin," brought only WARA.

Marlene D. and Digger are planning their new home at Beverly Hills.

Talkative Bob Dion is now a successful filibusterer in Congress.

Irene D. and Paul are now celebrating their ninth wedding anniversary.

We find Frank D. peeling potatoes in the kitchen at Fort Devens.

Quiet Roger D. is now a professional artist at the Rhode Island School of Design.

Dick D. now has a steady job at the New England Paper Money, Inc.

Carol E. is now a professional nurse at Sturdy's.

Carolyn E. is now a prosperous elementary school teacher.

The famous Rog. F. is now an electrician for Theofilis, Inc.

Our own Phyllis F. is now head nurse at the Veterans' Hospital.

Carole F. has now received her two diplomas—graduate nurse and housewife.

We now see Barb F. married, and trying to raise her small family of twenty.

Ray F. has finally fulfilled Carole's ambition as man of the house.

Don F. has now gone to live with his fellow pygmies in Africa.

Larry F. has taken over the lace business.

Bob F. is now playing the congo drums in "Ricky Ricardo's Bobaloo Band."

Bill G., our class engraver, has now turned to tombstone lettering.

We see our debutante, Gret. G., in the society section of the New York Times.
 We see Pete G. turning the keys of his Cadillac to his little woman.
 That isn't Marcia M. we see as a French Interpreter, is it?
 Judy G. came home this weekend to hold one of her annual pajama parties.
 Francis G. is now a dean at Brown University.
 Georgina G. is now a successful kindergarten teacher.
 Maryanne, during her pharmaceutical career, has sent three patients to the hospital for observation.
 We hear that Ted H. has made a few mistakes; he argues with Jackie and tries to take it out on the sergeant.
 Clark H. is finally convinced that a Chevy is a much better car than his old Ford.
 We wonder how Rich I. got his new job on the police force.
 Derry I. has now become a dramatic actress in Hollywood.
 Nancy J. is a happy teacher at Bryant.
 Eleanor K. is now taking ukulele instructions from Arthur Godfrey.
 The length of George K.'s sideburns is now approaching that of his rival.
 Pat L. has just returned from California, and was seen driving up Arnold Road in her new Lincoln convertible.
 We see Brenda L. more interested in her boss than her job.
 From force of habit, Carole L. gets up at four to milk the cows.
 Doris L. is now a famous model of Rogers and Hart.
 Carole M., our old tree climber, is now playing her flute in J. Dorsey's Band.
 Bob M. has proved that the quiet boys are the first to pop the all-important question.
 Right, Pat?
 Accurate Doris M. is now a successful comptometer operator.
 Returning from Virginia with a loaded station wagon is Paula S. and Rev.
 We see Del S. owner of his own auto Repair Shop.
 Ralph S. is now engineering the newly invented "Tom Thumb."
 Harold T., our high school drummer, is now entertaining the servicemen.
 Stan T. has now changed from a chemist to a meat ball maker. Right, Madeline?
 Jack V. in a Broadway show rides his bicycle across the stage for Goodyear.
 Now that Barb V. and Dupe are a twosome, she has no more money for a "Dutch treat."
 Madeline V. is now head spaghetti "bender" in "Stan's Restaurant."
 Connie W., our patient typist, has now finally lost her temper.
 Barb W., our drum major, is swinging her baton but in a reverse direction.
 Walt W. is now editor of the "Wilcox Journal."
 Gloria W. is now the successful wife of a marine. Right, Ronnie?
 Pinky Z., our class "gabber," is part owner of the Brook Manor.
 We see Larry R. is still looking for a job.
 Elaine K. owns the Attleboro Trust Co. Lucky girl!
 Jack A. is now a Pvt. in the Marines.
 We see Rich G. is a modern Menasha.
 John S. is now janitor of J. J. Newberry's.
 Francis F. is a famous jockey for Shetland ponies.
 Jo S. followed her mother's footsteps, she has a group of third graders.
 Our neatest girl, Jean R., still interests all the gay blades.
 Someone told us that Tim R. spent six years as a student teacher in history.
 Jeanne R. is now manager of the huge Ringuette's chain from coast to coast.
 Pat. P. is still driving around town in a red Olds.
 Bob P. still thinks his Plymouth is the hottest thing on four wheels.
 Carol R. still has a craze for blue sweaters.
 Charlie P. is now an office worker as a journalist's assistant.
 Pat. O. lost her shyness during her nurse's training.
 The paper office at Schofield's is well taken care of by Elaine P.
 Helen P. has taken over the Gas Company.
 It has been said that Bruce M. has the noisiest car on two wheels.
 David M. has joined his brother as a Marine, but this time it was Uncle Sam's idea.
 For some reason Nancy M. has developed an interest in music, especially accordion.
 Cecile M., one of our efficient secretaries, is still blushing.
 Ed. M. now holds a permanent position in the Columbia Radio and TV Service.
 The Army has a new enthusiast in Janice M., who has written regularly.

Although everyone likes to win, the important factor in all games is the real knowledge of sportsmanship. "Win, lose or draw," the fact that the game has been played well brings the only lasting satisfaction. In life as well as sports it's "how you played" that counts, much more than the final score.

MR. ROBERT PRENDERGAST

GUIDANCE

Through the doors of the guidance office, at one time or another, pass the nicest people we know, students of N. A. H. S.

Sometimes they come for material on schools, sometimes at the request of their teachers or parents, often just to "talk."

Always they come away feeling that the world really isn't such a bad place and that Mr. Prendergast really is one person "who understands."

Since our guidance department has been established, the students feel that there is a "court of appeal" and somehow the word gets around that the guidance office is really "the place to go" when you have a problem.
